

BELLE MORRIS ELEMENTARY SCHOOL - KNOX COUNTY

Belle Morris Elementary School is one of North Knoxville's oldest schools. With the continued growth of its population there is a need for more art classrooms, music classrooms, and community spaces. As an Earth Flag School, Belle Morris currently exhibits a dedication to teaching and practicing environmental preservation.

The CDC with the help of architect volunteer Elizabeth Eason were asked to design a "Green" building addition that could also be used as a teaching tool to help the students and the community. The design used sustainable design strategies per LEED (Leadership in Energy and Environmental Design).
